The SBU Difference

- The Stony Brook University School of Social Welfare is fully accredited by the Council on Social Work Education (CSWE), and offers a flexible class schedule in a convenient midtown location with an affordable tuition.
- Earn a degree from a CSWE fully accredited School- one of the most respected and affordable top-ranked public universities in the nation. Our School of Social Welfare prepares students to become competent and ethical professional social workers in the public and nonprofit sectors of health and social welfare.
- The New York State Education Department recognizes the MSW program as fulfilling the academic requirements for students to register for the LMSW and LCSW license examinations.
- *Take all classes as well as the practicum education internship in the NYC area. Stony Brook Manhattan is registered as an extension center with the New York State Education Department (NYSED). Under NYSED guidelines and regulations, extension center students are required to minimally take one course at the Stony Brook University main campus located on Long Island in Stony Brook, NY, in order to fulfill the residency requirement.
